We have finally reached the end of an incredibly challenging week of hot weather.

Our children have coped remarkably well, and the staff have been fantastic in keeping everything running so smoothly. A heartfelt thank you to all of our families for your support and partnership, which helped us navigate the week so calmly.

As the weather is expected to return to more typical summer temperatures next week, please ensure that children are back in full school uniform on Monday, when the usual school day will resume.

Warm regards,
Mrs Wall

Collective Worship

This week in collective worship children have been learning about the first Christians and the importance to keep going. The children discussed Paul going through a number of trials and how his confidence in God made him get back up and keep on going.

PCSO and RNLI

On Thursday children had PCSO's visit with talks about the importance of a PCSO and their role in our community. The children had an opportunity to look around a police car and hear how loud the sirens were, which the children found very exciting.

RNLI held a workshop today where they discussed the importance of water safety, it was very engaging and with the warmer weather we felt it's a very important topic in keeping children safe in and around water.

Reading Books

Could we please ask parents to check for school reading and phonics books at home. Please return any school books next week to ensure children can continue to take reading books home.
